Rail line focus on recreation

The future of the abandoned rail line between Elk Point and Heinsburg will focus on recreational use by horse and ATV enthusiasts, cross-country skiers, snowmobilers, cyclists and hikers, combined with summer pasture usage for adjacent livestock owners.

Close to 50 area landowners and other interested individuals attended a meeting at Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre last Tuesday, and voted overwhelmingly in favor of joint recreational and pasture use for the line, although a few landowners wanted it kept strictly for pasture.

The County of St. Paul No. 19 purchased the line and an adjacent gravel pit from Canadian National Railways last year. The gravel pit is estimated to contain 1.5 million cubic yards of gravel, which with a purchase price of $125,000, comes out to just over 8 cents per yard. The gravel pit was "the main purpose of the purchase," according to Division II Councillor Ray Danyluk. With their gravel supply needs taken care of, the County is looking for input from interest groups regarding the use of the rail line which came with the pit.

One of these interest groups is the Heinsburg Community Club, which according to Division I Councillor Bob Smith, "has been trying to get the right of way for years" in order to continue the development they have started at that end of the line. "We kept getting put off, and we couldn't get grant funding because we didn't have the title." The Club was unable to purchase a portion of the trackage "because CN wanted to get rid of it all at once." The Community Club and Heinsburg Seniors have developed the trackage in Heinsburg near the historic water tower "until it's like a lawn," with lots of dollars and work put in by the clubs and community residents.

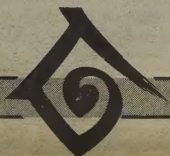

A few of the landowners present had hoped to see the rail line used exclusively for pasture, but Danyluk said that as County property, it must benefit all residents. Nor will the County sell portions of the line to adjacent landowners. "We did not buy it for that purpose, and we will keep it intact."

Several concerns with recreational use were noted, including the risk of cattle rustling, disturbance of wildlife habitat, the possibility of fires, and trespassing on adjacent land. It was agreed that fires will only be permitted if and where areas are designated, and that vehicle access and hunting will be prohibited. Landowners may post 'no trespassing' signs and lock their gates. Access to the trail will not be permitted for cars and trucks.

Three waterways cross the line, in Lindbergh townsite, beside the Salt Plant and at Middle Creek, and ways to deal with these were discussed. The County plans to make these crossings fordable for horses and off-road vehicles such as ATVs, as well as grading the roadbed and cutting grass and brush. This work will be done this spring as soon as conditions permit. Gates to allow trail users access to the portions of the trail used for pasture were also discussed, and a standardized design for a steel gate with reflective paint for high visibility was suggested.

THE FURRIEST OF ALL - Elk Point Agricultural Society's Fun and Furry Horse Show, April 16, drew 51 entries. The prize for the furriest of these entries is this horse shown by Melissa Snelgrove, who proudly displayed his long silky coat for the second championship in a row. Duane Warren of Tall Horse Saddlery makes the presentation. More pictures on Page 2.

C S Centre - does it have to go?

Two members of Elk Point's Parent Nursery Society are not taking the news of the imminent demise of the Community Services Centre without questioning the need for this familiar landmark to be abandoned and demolished.

Stephen and Bridget Montgomery were among the Parent Nursery members who discussed saving the building last fall. The group investigated the availability of grants for rejuvenation of the building, and approached the Town of Elk Point and the County of St. Paul for help, but to little avail.

As the former Community Services Director, Stephen Montgomery felt the building could be saved. In 1991, he noted, a committee of Town Council and Town staff got an estimate of $20,000 to bring it to a usable condition. After the recent notification by the Town that the Parent Nursery and other users would have to vacate the building by August 31, when the Town will terminate their lease, the Montgomeries met with the Parent Nursery mothers and the current Community Services Director, Terri Ehlert. However, almost everyone seemed skeptical that the repairs could be made for such a reasonable figure.

The Montgomeries were given two weeks to get a proposal together. In order to do this, they got quotes on repairs to roof, plumbing and electrical components, as well as on painting the exterior. The most costly and most necessary portion of these repairs is the renewal of the second roof level, which is now leaking, for a cost of $8879, plus GST, for renewal and a five year warranty against all leaks. Needed maintenance on the first roof level, which is

Any development in excess of this "will be up to you," Danyluk said, urging that a group to coordinate further development be formed. The nucleus of a steering committee was formed later in the evening, with Rock Sharkey and Henry Botting as co-chairmen. County Reeve Duane Lindberg said the County "will try to work with you as close as we can. Take care of it. It's your own." Danyluk added that "if we work together, it can be a success. I like what I'm hearing here. We'll be serving a great part of the population. I hope the recreational users and the pasture users will have respect for each other."

Area landowner Roy Scott, who hopes to use the trail as a wagon train route, said "we should feel grateful to the County. This is the greatest thing that ever happened." Scott also related a tidbit of history about the railroad grade's beginning:

"In the spring of 1927, one of our oldtimers, who was then sixteen years old, dumped the first load of fill for the railroad grade with a four horse team and a dump wagon... That was Bud Long, and he worked for a dollar a day."

VOLUNTEERS ARE... KEEPERS OF BOOKS...

SKILLED WITH A NEEDLE...

Volunteers: April 17 - 23 is your week!

Elk Point's volunteers come from all walks of life. They belong to all age groups, and possess a variety of talents which they put to work for the good of the community. If you aren't a volunteer yourself, chances are that someone in your family is.

Volunteers, such as those pictured on this page, are responsible for an amazing lot of good works. They willingly devote their evenings and weekend afternoons to running bingos, not only for the Elks and Pioneer Circle here in Elk Point, but for a number of Elk Point groups who fundraise at the bingo halls in St. Paul. This money goes to keep their own clubs and their facilities operational, and to provide a variety of programs and activities, often for community youth.

Volunteers also help to keep the community clean, with bottle drives, highway and park cleanup bees, paper recycling and toxic waste roundups. They provide activities for community youth, through winter and summer sports, Scouting and Guiding, 4-H, public speaking, and the provision of funds and awards for both academic and physical prowess.

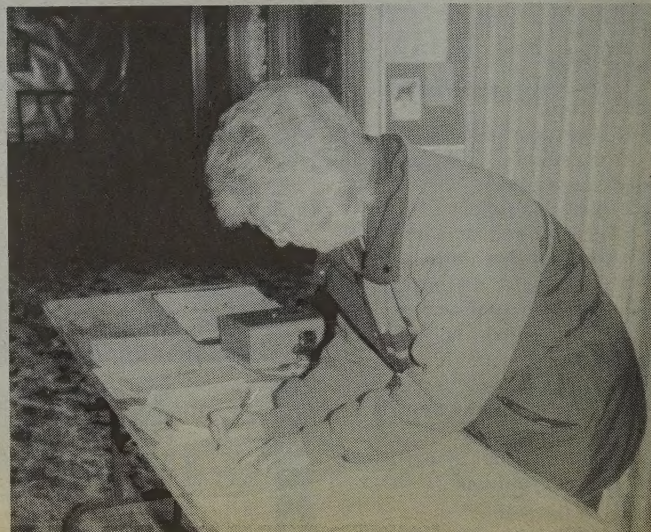

Volunteers help keep history and culture alive, through the Historical Society, Friends of the Forts, Library Board and Friends of the Library, the Royal Canadian Legion and the Ukrainian Dance Club. They provide fun for the whole family through the Canada Day activities, rodeos and Agricultural Fair.

Volunteers also delight in good works, whether they're coordinating the Lions Journey for Sight or the Terry Fox Run, collecting gifts and groceries for Santas Anonymous, or stitching a cosy Red Cross quilt for a fire victim. They work hard for funds to donate to various worthy causes, both in and outside of the community.

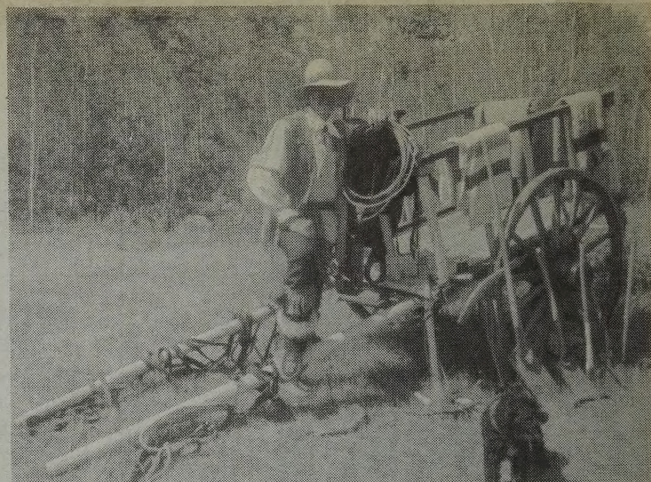

The volunteers mentioned above are only a few. Virtually every organization has its squad of dedicated workers, and could not get along without them. Whatever group you volunteer with, remember this: the community is better because of your efforts.

15th ANNUAL CONCERT

SPRAY-ON ARMOR - Lionel Romanchuk gets started on spraying a truck box with ArmorThane Coating at his new business.

Armor for your workhorse

Around the farm, one of the hardest working and often one of the worst treated pieces of equipment is your pickup truck. It hauls bales and cattle and fence posts and buckets of chop, and you just don't know what you'd do without it. Unfortunately, it gets to looking a bit rough as a result of all this use, especially the inside of the box.

If you want to spruce up your old truck and keep the box from rusting away, or if you have a new truck and want to keep it in prime shape, a new business in Elk Point has something that can help.

Lionel Romanchuk is now installing ArmorThane Coatings at his location in the Elk Point Industrial Park, 4613 - i 51 Avenue. As he prepared a pickup box for installation of the product, he explained that the one-eighth inch thick rubberized polyurethane coating not only protects and renews the truck box, it provides a non-slip surface that is a safety factor for loading and unloading cargo.

The process involves mixing two compounds and spraying the resulting product on in much the same manner as one would paint the area. "It dries in 10 seconds. This truck will be out this afternoon," Romanchuk said. A full sized pickup box costs $450 for the lining, he said.

The product also has uses in the oilfield, such as coating the inside of tank trucks and coating the inside of fibreglas truck fenders to protect the paint from rock chips. Farmers and ranchers can also have the fronts of horse or stock trailers sprayed as a rock guard, and Jeep and 4-wheel-drive owners are using it as protection against rocks and rust.

"They're coming up with new ideas for use every day, and they've done so many things with it," Romanchuk said. Call him at 724-3050 for further information.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS - Cathi Pratch proudly displays the line of handsome furniture and floor covering she has on hand at Carpet Village and Furniture's new Elk Point location, just west of Highway 41 on 50th Avenue. Last weekend saw numerous shoppers check out the new outlet of the well known Bonnyville-based business.

More crafts and more!

Their annual fall Crafts and More sale has been such a success that Elk Point OORP has decided to expand to a spring Crafts and More sale this year. Crafters have been impressed by the fall event and asked if there could not be one in the spring as well, according to sale organizer Marie Buck.

Mrs. Buck says there is an exciting lineup of booth holders for the Saturday, April 30 event. "We have everything from baking to hand-crafted children's toys, to woodworking, to dollhouse furniture, to needlework, as well as jewellery and makeup. There will be something for everyone." Among the entrepreneurs at the sale will be Larry Anderson, with his exquisite antler art, and a Bonnyville woodcrafter who makes cedar chests. Other booth holders are coming from Grand Centre, Cold Lake, Cutknife, SK, St. Paul, Glendon, Myrnam and Vermilion, as well as from the local areas.

About 30 booths in all are expected. Crafts and More will take place Saturday, April 30 at the Elks Hall from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Coffee, tea and doughnuts will be served.

Elk Point hosts FCSS conference

Elk Point Community Services, St. Paul FCSS and the County of St. Paul FCSS hosted the North Eastern Alberta FCSS Association Spring Conference this past weekend, with approximately 30 delegates from 12 communities taking part in the two day event.

Theme for the conference was "Families Grow Strong Communities."

The conference opened Friday night with greetings from Mayor Ed Buck and remarks from Gitta Hashizume, President of the FCSS Provincial Association. An hour-long panel discussion on "Change and Challenges: What is facing our communities in light of the changing climate in government?" had representatives of the Provincial FCSS office, the FCSS Association and Social Services on hand to answer questions. The evening wound up with a social gathering with a frontier theme, much enhanced by those who "dressed western". Participants also had an opportunity to view displays by Steve Andrishak, Fort George - Buckingham House Interpretive Centre, County FCSS and Cranberry Creek Nursery.

Saturday morning was devoted to "Family Dynamics," with Jean Acheson of Vermilion Catholic Social Services on hand to discuss family dynamics in relation to family of origin and generational issues. Participants made 'family maps' and compared the ways their family operated with the ways they have adapted in adulthood. This session was repeated for the general public at the Further Education Centre on Saturday afternoon.

The afternoon started off with the Northeast Regional FCSS Meeting. This was followed by Pastor Jim MacLellan of Elk Point Baptist Church who spoke on "Alberta Families." To develop a strategy to equip families to cope with today's world, where 92 percent of people still plan to marry, but 36 percent divorce in less than 10.7 years, we need people of character and competence, MacLellan said. Character, he felt, is made up of responsibility, serenity, security, significance, vision and principles, while competence is developed by dealing with family-of-origin issues, fractured family issues, parenting issues and personal management issues.

MacLellan also did a "living survey" regarding the questions asked in the International Year of the Family survey. Participants were asked for brief answers on each of the questions. A 'healthy family' was determined to be one which communicates, is healthy, loving, caring and supportive. What families need to be healthy are communication, nurturing, time together and understanding. Ways which communities are strengthening the family included self-help support programs, family oriented functions, listening to community needs and working together to act on them, parenting courses, family counselling, a variety of programs for various age groups, and FCSS, which was seen as accomplishing all of the above. Ways communities can strengthen the family include activities that reassure that being a family is important, putting the fun back in family life, and education.

Stephen Montgomery of Alberta Community Development spoke on "Building Strong Communities" in the final session of the day. He said there were many perceptions of what a "community" is, and that the family is the "key generator" of involvement and volunteerism in the community. It is through volunteerism that the family often relates to the community, he noted, whether for children's programming, recreation or bringing in funds for community betterment. Organizations take a pro-active role in community development as well.

In his closing remarks, County of St. Paul Reeve Duane Lindberg said the County FCSS "has come a long way. We appreciate the work that has been done, especially in the schools." Lindberg said that results "are starting to show up" and "nothing but good has come out of it."

Charity begins at home

The Order of the Royal Purple bases their work on four guiding principles, one of which is charity. In the case of the Elk Point OORP, this charity begins at home, with $1745 in donations to 13 organizations in the community in the past year. A further $955 was donated to other groups outside the community, including the BPO Elks and OORP's national charity, the Purple Cross Fund.

In Elk Point and district, the OORP contributed to Elk Point Minor Ball Association ($100), Canada Day ($200), Elk Point Golf and Country Club ($100), Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club ($200), Elk Point Soccer Club ($50), Elk Point Hospital's Palliative Care ($500), F. G. Miller High School Awards Night ($35), Elk Point Scouting Association ($100), Elk Point Royal Canadian Legion Remembrance Day ($60), Jack and Jill Playschool ($50), Elk Point Lioness Club ($50), Elk Point Hospital New Year's Baby ($100), and Elk Point Elementary School's Drug Awareness Contest ($200). This last event was also co-sponsored by the Elks Lodge.

A group which is St. Paul based, but with youths from Elk Point very much involved, the North East Alberta Track and Field Association, received $50.

The Purple Cross Fund is a nation-wide charity of the Elks and OORP, of which one function is providing funding for deaf detection in children, and which purchases such devices as hearing aids and computers for hearing challenged children. The OORP contributed $550 to that worthy cause, which has in the past assisted several children from our own area.

Other recipients of the OORP's kind donations this year were Camp He Ho Ha ($55), the Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Fund ($100), Lloydminster Interval Home ($100), and the Children's Health Foundation ($100).

It is fortunate for our community, in these days of funding cutbacks, that we have benevolent groups such as the OORP who are willing to work, both on their own and with other organizations, to assist those in need. A Volunteer Week salute to the OORP for their efforts on behalf of the community.

Theatre gets everyone 'in the mood'

NOT QUITE THE ANDREWS SISTERS - Alice, Joe (believe it or not) and Jenny do a spirited rendition of "The Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy Of Company B."

The Beaver River Reform Party hosted a delightful Dinner Theatre presentation of "In The Mood" at the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre last Saturday evening. After a fine meal and welcoming remarks by Member of Parliament Deborah Grey, the audience was ready to sit back and enjoy the hour of song and dance by the Shoestring Theatre troupe from Edmonton. Deanna Clee, Lori Biamonte and James Toupin were accompanied by Bill Emes on piano as they romped through their routines.

The story centred on Jenny, a high school student who is bored, bored, bored with the idea of studying the "ancient history" of World War II. As she dozes off with her nose in a fat textbook, she suddenly finds herself in the middle of a 1940s radio show, hosted by Joe and Alice, and sponsored by Lux Flakes.

After hearing Joe's "Old Black Magic," Jenny was inspired to do some singing of her own, an idea which came from "Somewhere Over The Rainbow." A quick switch from jeans and sweatshirt to a green wedge hat, khaki jacket and green skirt just like Alice's puts Jenny in the mood, and she joins the duet in a rousing "Chatanooga Choo Choo," reports a Japanese ship sunk in a news flash, and joins Alice in the hopeful strains of "There'll Be Bluebirds Over The White Cliffs of Dover."

Joe finds bad and good things about having failed his Armed Forces physical - his hockey team is down to five, but there is a much better gal-to-guy ratio at the dances. It's April, 1942, and he's sure "it's got to end soon."

Just for a little variety, he dons a skirt and wig, and joins the girls in the Andrews Sisters' favorite, "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," before going on to give the latest sweater washing techniques from Lux Flakes.

He's back to normal, but the girls are a little sheepish, with wagging woolly tails as they bleat out the next number, "Someone To Watch Over Me."

Jenny and Joe make Alice jealous with their rendition of "What's New?" She counters with "Makin' Whoopee." Then Joe bewails the fate of a Lieutenant, who "Don't Get Around Much Any More." Special guest Mary Sunshine tapdances her way through "Tea For Two."

The show gets lots of letters. Alice empathizes with the lonesome women with "As Time Goes By" while Joe gets a letter from a buddy in the South Pacific, who has met an overeager woman named "Tangerine." This large beauty visits Joe and is just all hands!

The show ends with Joe and Alice "Taking A Chance on Love" and Jenny pouring out her longing for "Danny Boy." Then she's back in her chair, and her teen friends, looking a lot like Joe and Alice, wake her from her dreaming. By then, they are all "In The Mood" to study the history of the war years.

Elk Point brings home gold again

Melanie Malachowski
Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club

The Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club travelled to Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, on April 8 to 10, 1994, to compete in the Prince Albert Ukrainian Dance Festival.

On April 9, the Intermediate Girls, consisting of Taralee Babenek, Kenna Hillebrand, Chantelle Maas and Claudia Naber, performed their Poltavski Dance, receiving a mark of 88 percent, but came 3 percent short of a gold medal. Later that afternoon, they returned again to dance their fast tempo Hutzul Dance, receiving a bronze medal with a mark of 86 percent. Good work, girls!

Our Adult group, consisting of Terrie Donaldson, Kathy Lovell, Joan Palamarek and Donna Yaremkevich performed their Bukovynian Dance, receiving a Gold medal with a mark of 90 percent. The adjudicator, Roxanne Rachinsky, was very impressed and commented that there should be more Adult Ukrainian Dancers.

On Sunday, April 10, the morning started early with the Junior Girls competing in the Poltavski, Large Group Category, Ages 9 and 10. In their beautiful costumes, our Junior Girls, Charlene Brown, Jasmine Brown, Jamie Croteau, Brandi Grekul, April Gusnowski, Eva Gusnowski, Kristy Myshaniuk, Maureen Myshaniuk, Monica Naber, Danielle Schnurer and Jamie Schnurer, received a gold medal with a mark of 92 percent. They danced later that afternoon, receiving a gold medal with a mark of 90 percent in the Lyrical Large Group Category.

The Seniors, James Babenek, Tommy Bayduza, Leslie Hillebrand, Charissa Brown, Michelle Hillebrand, Kathy Kozina, Melanie Malachowski and Dorothea Naber received a gold medal with a mark of 94 percent in the Bukovynian Category, ages 15 and 16. In the Poltavski Category, the Seniors, competing against eight other groups, did extremely well, scoring 91 percent and receiving a bronze medal.

In addition to the many medals, the Junior Girls brought home the Hydamaacka trophy, donated by Debbie and Lawrence Hydamaacka from Meath Park, Saskatchewan, and the Seniors brought back the Carnival Bingo trophy, donated by Carnival Bingo, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, for Bukovynian, Any Age, Any Category.

Everyone danced excellently and came home with medals and a sense of accomplishment. Good job, dancers!

A big thank you to our instructor, Steve Perozak, who travelled with us to Prince Albert. He was there every step of the way and was always willing to give us that extra minute of his time. Unfortunately, our other instructor, Tanya Serediak, was unable to come with us, but she was always in our minds. And thanks to our parents for supporting us and getting us through this competition once again.

What's News at the Library?

April showers? Curl up with a good book

Michele Duczek
Librarian

Many of you may not be aware of this, but I usually write this column on Wednesday evening. As I am writing this, it is raining, not as hard as earlier, but wet stuff is still falling out of the sky. Growing up in Western Canada has instilled in me a healthy respect for rain and camping in Western Canada has given me a healthy dislike for the stuff. I am an expert in putting up and taking down a tent in a downpour.

The best part about rain is curling up, warm and dry, with a good book. My preference is a good mystery. One of my favorite authors is Sue Grafton, and for all of you other Grafton fans out there, her latest offering, 'K' Is For Killer has arrived at the library. This time, Kinsey is hired to look into the mysterious death of a young woman who was a receptionist by day and a prostitute by night.

Fans of the series may be disappointed that Kinsey's elderly landlord, Henry, is absent from the book. He's in Michigan visiting family. On the other hand, someone finally gave Kinsey a decent haircut.

Another recent arrival is Judith Krantz's newest offering, Lovers. Several of the characters from Scruples are joined by characters from Scruples II and a few new cast members. As the title suggests, love is a primary element. A patron who recently read the book told me that it was funny in places. Fans of Judith Krantz are bound to be pleased.

Another popular author, Catherine Cookson, checks in with The Golden Straw. The title refers to a straw hat of a distinctive gold color. The plot traces a woman, Emily Pearson, and her family from the heyday of the Victorian era through to the middle of our century.

DID YOU KNOW? During the Turner Valley oil boom of the 1930s, the towns of Little Chicago and Little New York sprang up virtually overnight. Little New York even had a suburb called Little Philadelphia. Little Chicago no longer exists, but Little New York lives on under a new name, Longview.

Have you ever tried to solder a copper pipe with water in it? I remember doing handyman plumbing. Within a few hours, one of the pesky ninety degree fittings started to leak. I worked and worked trying to get enough heat to that fitting so the solder would flow and seal the joint. Finally, I did what any rational, sane person would do. I turned off the water. I drained the pipe. I soldered it properly.

In family finance, we have a similar problem. We try to stop the leaks without fixing the problem. Here are some tips on how to "shut off the water:"

1. Do you commit your savings to goals? Or do they just sit there for any ol' purpose?
2. Do you follow a shopping list?
3. Do you record all your expenses? (That tells you where the drip is!)
4. Do you plan your budget as a family? (And then follow it!)
5. Do you pay your bills (including credit cards) on time?
6. Have you considered borrowing or sharing that seldom used item you want for camping this summer?
7. Do you spend time and money on preventative maintenance?
8. Are your children taught to respect property and use it wisely?

9. Can you make that purchase you want? (Including lunch on that shopping trip?)

10. Do you know when a bargain is really a bargain?

There's a few drips that we might find in any of our homes. Are there some more in yours?

Community Services Centre

not leaking, is estimated at $800, while all existing plumbing problems could be repaired for $400. A local electrical contractor said no electrical problems were present and that the wiring meets code requirements. The heating boiler was inspected this past February and was approved for two years of operation. An additional $10,700 would totally renew all three levels of roof and give the roof a 5 year warranty, while painting the exterior would cost $5000.

A proposal including the above figures was presented by the Montgomerys to the County School Board, owners of the structure, at their April 11 meeting. The County seemed supportive and indicated that a five year lease would be available on the building. The Montgomerys were asked to report back to the School Board on May 6.

The next step was to meet with the balance of the Parent Nursery group, which they did April 13. Mrs. Montgomery said this was "a difficult meeting. The process by which the Parent Nursery was notified [that they would have to leave the building] has had everyone panicked. All the energy is going toward finding new space rather than about saving this building." After considerable discussion, however, the Parent Nursery agreed to support the proposal in principle.

The biggest problem, the Montgomerys feel, would not be in finding funds to repair the building, since some of the other current tenants have also indicated support. Instead, it would be in coping with operating costs, the shortfall in which is currently borne by the Town of Elk Point. Without the Town as tenants, which they have indicated they would not be, operation of the building may not be feasible.

Still, if there were sufficient support from the community, the Montgomerys are ready and willing to help save the building from becoming landfill debris. In an interview on Thursday, Stephen noted that "it's got to be more useful to the community as a building than as a parking lot." If you agree, please contact the Montgomerys at 724-2432.

Reshaping child welfare for Services for Children and Families in Alberta. Its purpose was to provide an opportunity for public input to assist the Commission to review and improve the provision of services for children and their families.]

The Commission consists of representatives from the provincial departments of Health, Education, Family and Social Services and Justice. Its mandate is to create a positive social and economic environment to improve the quality of life for all Albertans. The redesign of services will reflect the need to build on the strengths of communities, families and individuals, and the need for public scrutiny and input to improve the quality of services.

The participants of the forum provided information to the Commission on the redesign of services for children and their families, and worked together to work out a strategy for responding to some of these proposed changes.

For more information on the results of the public forum, or the work of the Commission, contact Alberta Family and Social Services at 645-6370.
